

Meet your 2007-2009 Governor

Sandra Hawkins is currently an Aviation Safety Inspector with the Federal Aviation Administration specializing in Air Carrier Operations. Previously to joining the FAA, she was a captain with Independence Air, otherwise known to some as Atlantic Coast Airlines, for 13 years. She flew the Jetstream 3201, Jetstream 4100, Dornier 328 Jet and the Canadair Regional Jet. She also holds a type rating in the B-737. Her aviation background also includes flight instructor and corporate pilot. She also has a background in the senior services industry and computer software consulting.

She lives on the Eastern Shore of the Chesapeake Bay with her husband Elmer Barbee who was also flew for Independence Air.

Sandra has always supported the Ninety-Nines and has mentored other women in their aviation careers. "Having other women friends to share the joy of flying is important to me."

She is currently the Governor of the Mid-Atlantic Section.
